Michigan is one of the four states in the country with the highest number of abortion restrictions, with five others having more. The state has passed only 12 of 25 supportive policies, with the remaining 13 laws seeking to restrict access to abortion. If the health of women and children is truly a concern for the state, policymakers’ time and effort would be better spent increasing the number of policies that support women and children, rather than enacting harmful abortion restrictions.

EVALUATING PRIORITIES

Michigan

Michigan has the fourth highest number of abortion restrictions in the country, along with 5 other states, but has passed only 12 of 25 supportive policies. If the health of women and children is truly a concern for the state, policymakers’ time and effort would be better spent increasing the number of policies that are known to support women and children, rather than enacting harmful abortion restrictions.
